

Part 1

Read Passage One and answer questions 1-8 in the Question-Answer Book.

Passage One:

Cantonese opera singer explains her passion for helping young Hong Kong audiences enjoy the traditional performing art

- 1 [1] Performer Chloe Chan Hei-yu has a vivid memory of the first time she watched a Cantonese opera play in Cheung Chau with her grandma when she was three years old. In an open-air temporary bamboo theatre, the young girl sat in the audience, her attention captivated by famous actress and singer Liza Wang Ming-chun. "It was stunning. The flamboyant garments of the performers were very beautiful," recalled the 27-year-old. "And I was also very impressed that we were allowed to eat while enjoying the performance."
- 5 [2] At the age of seven, she began learning Cantonese opera, starting with the basics like make-up and body movement. As she dived deeper into the art, she realised its true beauty went beyond the extravagant costumes. "What I like the most is its diversity which combines different elements of performance," she shared, referring to how Cantonese opera incorporates singing, acting, rhythmic narrations and martial arts. Chan added that another
- 10 charm of the classic art form was that these well-written plays performed in Cantonese represented Hong Kong's unique local culture. "As long as Cantonese still exists in this city, there will be Cantonese opera," Chan insisted.
- [3] Cantonese opera, or yue-ju, is a type of Chinese traditional theatre that originated in the Guangdong region. The tradition reached its climax in the 1950s and 60s when it was a major pastime for Hongkongers. But with the rise of Canto-pop and the internet, its popularity has declined as fewer young people join the industry. Still,
- 15 the classic art form is regarded as part of the city's cultural identity. In 2009, it became the first Hong Kong tradition to be listed by the United Nations Educational, Scientific and Cultural Organisation (Unesco) as an intangible cultural heritage that needs to be conserved.
- [4] As one of the few fresh faces in Cantonese opera, Chan has performed on countless stages since her debut at eight years old, and the only pause in her acting life was when preparing for Hong Kong's university entrance exam. During her student days, the artist recalled having to spend three days a week practising Cantonese opera after school, and each lesson would be up to three hours long. Though she enjoyed being on the stage, the student did not dream of devoting her life to it: "At that time, I only treated Cantonese opera as my lifelong hobby and had never thought of making a living by performing."
- 20 [5] After graduating from secondary school, she enrolled at the University of Hong Kong to study journalism. Even while she was on this career path, Cantonese opera managed to find its way into her life. As an undergraduate student, Chan worked part-time at public broadcaster RTHK Radio 5, hosting programmes to introduce audiences to Cantonese opera. The performer gained a new perspective on the art she had grown up with, and she was inspired to promote the sunset industry.
- [6] After graduating from university, Chan continued freelancing at the radio station while also working in various supporting roles on the stage. Once, she was given the rare opportunity to perform in Cheung Chau. "I had a déjà vu moment when stepping into the bamboo theatre as I had never expected that one day I could perform on the stage of my childhood dreams," said the actress. "And this was the moment that prompted me to think: maybe I could try becoming a full-time performer."
- 30 [7] The following year, she became one of the youngest artists at the Tea House Theatre at Xiqu Centre in West Kowloon, which opened in 2019. But this theatre is not like most other Cantonese opera houses – its purpose is to make this traditional art more accessible and down-to-earth for modern audiences. "I often hear people say they can't understand Cantonese opera, but they just need someone to guide them," Chan said, pointing out that the ancient art form's complex lyrics, symbolic movements and shrill sounds could be confusing for newcomers. "All abstract movements have a meaning ... We seldom rely on props ... for storytelling but instead on suggestive
- 40 gestures and lines," the performer said, explaining as an example that certain hand gestures could indicate the opening and closing of a door.

- 45 [8] "The 90-minute programme features a varying selection of music and performances from different classic plays. And there will be a moderator explaining the background of the story, with subtitles in both Chinese and English," the actress said of Tea House Theatre's approach to helping a new generation appreciate Cantonese opera. "And audiences can enjoy a set of dim sum and a cup of tea during the performance." "We hope to attract more young audiences to watch the ancient art form, at least to get a taste of it." She noted that Cantonese opera could also enhance students' appreciation of Chinese culture: "Most of the scripts are from classic Chinese literature which often carries messages about filial piety and righteousness, which are core virtues in Chinese culture."
- 50 [9] Having practised Cantonese opera for two decades, the actress feels it is her mission to pass on the city's heritage. "People are exposed to so many forms of entertainment, it's not easy to preserve this ancient performing art ... While we can still enjoy performances from Cantonese opera veterans, will the art die out after they pass away?" she wondered. "I hope 30 years from now, someone will still be performing and watching Cantonese opera."

Read Passage Two and answer questions 9-16 in the Question-Answer Book.

Passage Two:

Iceland's Mount Doom

- 1 [1] On March 20, the Icelandic volcano Eyjafjallajökull erupted. The impact was as complicated as the pronunciation of the name of the volcano. Airports in Britain were forced to close, followed by airports in Ireland, Norway, France and five other European countries. At least 4,000 flights were cancelled, an unprecedented level of disruption.
- 5 [2] Before all the chaos, a documentary crew was already in Iceland two weeks prior to the eruption. Studying precise data from the Icelandic Meteorological Office, the team were predicting an eruption would occur somewhere between mid and late March. They were able to capture footage of the eruption from the outset.
- 10 [3] Producer of the programme Anna Dís Ólafsdóttir remarked: "We were watching the activity closely but we never knew how big the consequences would be." The five-person crew was the first one to land at the volcano when the eruption started.
- [4] Naked Science – Icelandic Volcano was broadcast in Hong Kong on National Geographic Channel in early May and rerun in early June. The team filmed stunning eruption scenes and interviewed locals living in the foothills of the volcano.
- 15 [5] While all flights were banned from flying for safety reasons, the crew was able to persuade a "young, brave and good pilot" to fly a helicopter close to the volcano in order to capture amazing footage. Director of the documentary Jóhann Sigfússon said this was the most exciting experience. "When the volcano erupted, there was lots of turbulence and the helicopter was falling. It was so difficult to fly. Eyjafjallajökull is a huge volcano and we flew so close that you felt you could throw a ball into the crater! Adrenaline was pumping for sure."
- 20 [6] Flying a helicopter near an erupting volcano is dangerous. How did Sigfússon make sure the trip was safe? "There's no problem if you fly at a safe distance. And remember not to enter the ash cloud as it would stop the engine. We flew as close as 200 metres away from the volcano and not any closer. At the same time we were under surveillance by the local coast guard to ensure our safety," he explained.
- 25 [7] Sigfússon was determined to make the film for the sake of his art. "My job is to go as close as I can for the audience, therefore we go as far as we can." This explains why the team insisted on visiting a female farmer living in the foothills of Eyjafjallajökull even when volcanic ash was blocking the road and their car was running out of gas. They were driving at 2 pm in the afternoon but the sky was as dark as in the evening, while the air was filled with tiny particles from the ash, remembers Sigfússon. They were wearing masks inside the car and the GPS was not working due to the magnetic forces of the seismic activity in Iceland.
- 30 [8] Fortunately the team was able to reach their destination, but the farmer was reluctant to leave the house even with the volcano erupting fiercely up the hill. Sigfússon recalls: "Her sheep had just given birth to a baby. She said that 'life goes on' even when the whole area was being enveloped by ash." The director asked her to leave the house and join the filming process, but the woman refused. "She said she preferred staying with her animals. I was deeply touched by her bravery and determination."
- 35 [9] The woman living by the volcano felt at one with nature even when it was threatening her and therefore she felt little need to leave her home. Growing up in an urban jungle like Hong Kong, it is difficult for us to feel such a close attachment to nature as this woman does, unless, perhaps, when it strikes us in the form of a disaster.
- 40 [10] "Humans always think we control the planet, but it isn't like that, nature controls us," observed Sigfússon. "When you're standing by a volcano like this, you're feeling it on your body, your hair and the explosion makes you feel you're very tiny, very small. We realised how small we really are, compared to Mother Nature. I think it would be very wise to remember that."

END OF READING PASSAGES

FORM 3

GENERAL ENGLISH

QUESTION-ANSWER BOOK

Name: _____

Class: _____

Class Number: _____

Set 1

Part 1 – Reading Comprehension (30 marks)

For each multiple choice question, darken the appropriate circle. Otherwise, no mark will be awarded.

Passage One (17 marks)

1. What about the Chinese opera singers piqued Chloe's interest when she watched her first play?

- A. the lyrics
- B. their voice
- C. their clothes
- D. their dance

A	B	C	D
☐	☐	☐	☐

2. Find a word in paragraphs 1 to 3 which shares the same meaning as each of the phrases below. (4 marks)

- (i) brightly coloured and easily noticed _____
- (ii) includes something as part of something larger _____
- (iii) the fact of having a lot of variety _____
- (iv) unable to be touched; not having physical presence _____

3. What 'moment' is Chan referring to in line 31?

4. According to Chloe, what are the obstacles to understanding Cantonese opera?

5. Use the information in the article to decide whether the following statements are True, False or Not Given.

(3 marks)

- | | | | |
|---|-----------------------|-----------------------|-----------------------|
| | T | F | NG |
| (i) Cantonese opera performers typically convey the plot of the play with props. | ☐ | ☐ | ☐ |
| (ii) Filial piety and righteousness are the most important core virtues in Chinese culture. | ☐ | ☐ | ☐ |
| (iii) Chloe has practised Cantonese opera for 20 years. | ☐ | ☐ | ☐ |

Answers written in the margins will not be marked.

Answers written in the margins will not be marked.

Answers written in the margins will not be marked.

Answers written in the margins will not be marked.

6. Below is a table summarising the features of Cantonese opera held in open-air bamboo theatres and at Xiqu Centre. Complete all the boxes in the table by writing 'Y' for yes or 'N' for no. (3 marks)

Feature	Open-air bamboo theatre	Xiqu Centre
(i) Scripts are mostly adapted from classic Chinese literature.
(ii) There is a moderator explaining the background of the story with English subtitles.
(iii) Audiences can enjoy food while watching the performances.

7. Complete the text summarising the popularity of Cantonese opera over the years by writing ONE word from paragraphs 7-9 in each blank. Make sure your answers are grammatically correct. (3 marks)

Cantonese opera had its heyday in Hong Kong in the 50s and 60s, when performances were held in open-air bamboo theatres on a regular basis. However, the classic (i) _____ art has since declined. This is due to a number of factors, including audiences feeling that the art form was not (ii) _____ to them and the rise of other types of (iii) _____ such as the internet.

8. Which of the following comments best matches Chloe's opinions in the article?

- A. "I believe Cantonese opera has much to offer young Hongkongers."
 B. "To attract modern audiences, Cantonese opera should include music genres like Canto-pop."
 C. "Cantonese opera can be easily preserved with more financial support."
 D. "Students should treat Cantonese opera as a hobby but not a career option."
- A B C D
☐ ☐ ☐ ☐

Passage Two (13 marks)

9. What figurative language is used in the sentence, 'The impact was as complicated as the pronunciation of the name of the volcano.'?

- A. metaphor
 B. simile
 C. personification
 D. alliteration
- A B C D
☐ ☐ ☐ ☐

10. Which of the following definitions best describes the meaning of the word 'unprecedented' in paragraph 1?

- A. never done or known before
 B. unpredictable
 C. unlikely to be true
 D. not rated or valued highly enough
- A B C D
☐ ☐ ☐ ☐

Answers written in the margins will not be marked.

Answers written in the margins will not be marked.

Answers written in the margins will not be marked.

11. Use the information in the article to decide whether the following statements are True, False or Not Given. (5 marks)

	T	F	NG
(i) The team correctly predicted the eruption period using data from the Icelandic Meteorological Office.	☐	☐	☐
(ii) The team documented the eruption from beginning to end.	☐	☐	☐
(iii) The 'young, brave and good pilot' made the helicopter flight easy.	☐	☐	☐
(iv) The farmer was unwilling to leave her house because of volcanic ash.	☐	☐	☐
(v) The writer of this article was born in Hong Kong.	☐	☐	☐

12. What does the sentence 'Adrenaline was pumping for sure.' in paragraph 5 imply?

13. What is the director's attitude towards the female farmer?

- A. disappointed
B. indifferent
C. optimistic
D. appreciative

A ☐ B ☐ C ☐ D ☐

14. Which local organisation offered assistance in making Sigfússon's flight safe?

15. Arrange the events in chronological order by writing the letters in the spaces below. The first event should be on the left, and the last event on the right.

- A. Airports in Ireland were forced to close.
B. The team was enveloped by volcanic ash and needed to wear masks to protect themselves.
C. The film crew arrived in Iceland.
D. The female farmer refused to join the filming process.
E. Airports in Britain were forced to close.
F. The volcano erupted.

_____ > _____ > _____ > _____ > _____ > _____

16. Match the headings to the corresponding paragraphs. Write the letters (A-D) next to each set of paragraphs in the table. Two headings are not used. (2 marks)

Heading
A. Living with a volcano
B. Natural disasters
C. Flying amid an eruption
D. Turbulent chaos

Paragraph
5-6
9-10

END OF PART 1

Answers written in the margins will not be marked.

Answers written in the margins will not be marked.

Part 2 – English Usage (70 marks)

A. Verb Forms (10 marks)

Fill in the blanks with the words provided in brackets in their correct forms.

The climate crisis (1) (bring) an unparalleled threat to the world, owing to polar ice melting, sea levels rising, habitat loss, and the increasing frequency of extreme weather. Developed countries think reducing greenhouse gas emissions (2) (be) equivalent to stifling economic development, whereas developing countries believe that since they (3) (not involve) in the mass greenhouse gas emissions during the industrial age, they therefore bear no responsibility for climate change today.

Ironically, global carbon dioxide concentration has risen since the signing of the United Nations Framework Convention on Climate Change (UNFCCC) in 1992, as the member states (4) (not implement) the Convention seriously. This has attracted international criticism. The Kyoto Protocol, which (5) (sign) in 1997 and became effective in 2005, requested 38 countries and the European Union to implement stronger controls on greenhouse gas emissions. The world's 'number one gas emitter' at that time, the United States, refused to sign the protocol on the grounds that it (6) (stifle) economic development, and the world's 'number two gas emitter' at that time, China, (7) (exempt) from the protocol due to its status as a developing country. Russia announced its withdrawal after it had signed. What could have been productive commitments to lower gas emissions (8) (shelve) due to countries' focus on economic development.

It seems that capitalism is the cause not only of climate change, but also of other environmental issues such as grassland desertification and deforestation, both of which (9) (be) the products of a benefit-based system that (10) (lead) to excessive economic growth at the expense of the environment.

1.	2.	3.	4.
5.	6.	7.	8.
9.	10.

Answers written in the margins will not be marked.

Answers written in the margins will not be marked.

Answers written in the margins will not be marked.

B. Vocabulary (5 marks)

Choose the most suitable words from the table below to complete the sentences. You may need to change the form of the words. Each word should only be used once.

avoidance	pursuit	exhausted	ultimate	temporary
generalise	circumstances	dubious	mainly	indifferently

The idea that capitalism is a leading cause of global warming is nothing new. Four years ago, the president of Bolivia mentioned this at an international conference on climate change. It is (1) accepted that capitalism is the (2) driver of global warming, as it is a system that constantly (3) profit and growth. In order to increase profitability, large enterprises must continue to stimulate or even increase people's desire for consumption by developing new technologies, new inventions, and new trends, to in turn generate new profits.

Aiming to achieve economic growth and increase GDP, some countries end up trying to stimulate consumption. The growing consumer demand causes enterprises to consume more natural resources to produce more goods, (4) leading to the (5) of social and natural resources.

1.	2.	3.	4.
5.

Answers written in the margins will not be marked.

Answers written in the margins will not be marked.

Answers written in the margins will not be marked.

C. Parts of Speech (10 marks)

Fill in the blanks with the appropriate forms of the words in brackets. Each answer must be ONE word.

Prey movie review

4/5 stars

It has been 35 years since Arnold Schwarzenegger went toe to toe with a murderous alien in the jungles of Latin America. There have been (1) (number) sequels and crossovers in the years since, but nothing to match the lean, visceral intensity of John McTiernan's original Predator.

That all changes with Prey, a back-to-basics prequel set in the early 1700s, in which an extra-terrestrial hunter drops into Native American Comanche territory just as a young female warrior sets out to (2) (proof) her worth to the rest of her tribe.

In this fiercely (3) (patriarchy) community, Naru (Amber Midthunder) is expected to stay at home with her mother, while her brother Taabe (Dakota Beavers) and his friends scour the formidable countryside for food.

When a mountain lion is spotted close to camp, the young men are dispatched to hunt it down. Against their wishes, Naru tags along, and it soon becomes apparent there is something else in the woods – something (4) (finite) more dangerous that is stalking them.

The Predator franchise has always riffed on Richard Connell's story The Most Dangerous Game, in which a reclusive count hunts humans for sport on his remote island. The predators come in search of big-game trophies, their violent excursions portrayed as a kind of initiation for adolescent warriors.

Naru is determined to undergo a similar rite of passage, which inevitably leads her into a face-to-face encounter with the alien.

Director Dan Trachtenberg peppers his film with numerous Darwinian illustrations of life in the natural world, as rodents, reptiles and large mammals fall prey of more dominant predators.

The Comanche also cross paths with a gang of foreign (5) (trap), who pose a different, but no less potent (6) (threaten) to the tribe and the local wildlife.

Thankfully, Trachtenberg reins in his metaphors before they become too heavy-handed. This is, after all, a Predator movie, and as such gleefully delivers tense stand-offs, exotic weaponry, inventive booby traps and a procession of gory (7) (die).

Midthunder ensures Naru is a formidable heroine, delivering a captivating performance that requires little dialogue but a physical on-screen presence that (8) (evolution) before our eyes.

The rest of the cast, made up almost entirely of Native American and First Nation performers, enhance the film's (9) (authenticity) sense of time and place, all fastidiously overseen by Comanche producer Jhane Myers.

The film is shot both in English and the Comanche language, and audiences will have the choice of how they experience Prey when it drops on Disney+.

What is immediately evident is how effectively Prey recaptures the spirit of the first film. It stands (10) (pride) as the best addition yet to the franchise's original.

1.	2.	3.	4.
5.	6.	7.	8.
9.	10.

Answers written in the margins will not be marked.

D. Phrasal Verbs (5 marks)

Fill in the blanks with the phrasal verbs provided in the table below. You may need to change the form of the verbs. Each phrase can be used only once.

make off with	give away	wake up	look up make off	make in	take over	make of set off	break down	keep up with	break into

Three burglars (1) my neighbour's home last Friday. The housebreakers (2) all of her valuables, including jewellery like rings, earrings, and necklaces. Because of the noise made by the burglars, my neighbour (3) and quickly dialled 999.

Once the police arrived, my neighbour told them, "My earrings, which are (4) rubies, were given to me by my late grandmother. They're priceless. I saw the burglars (5) in a black Honda but I cannot recall the licence plate number."

Fortunately, more eyewitnesses later came forward to report the incident to the police. With the aid of the eyewitnesses, two days later, the police managed to apprehend the thieves.

1.	2.	3.	4.
5.

Answers written in the margins will not be marked.

Answers written in the margins will not be marked.

Answers written in the margins will not be marked.

Answers written in the margins will not be marked.

E. Gerunds and Infinitives (10 marks)

Fill in the blanks with the words provided in brackets in their correct forms.

Walter	I still remember (1) (go) to Northern China for the first time. Though I tried (2) (look) cool and casual, I was ecstatic.
Jade	I can imagine. It made me quite jealous as I wanted to go there too.
Walter	Yes, I am aware. I was so enthralled that I completely forgot (3) (write) to you. I'm sorry for not (4) (send) you a postcard.
Jade	It's fine. We met right away when you returned to Hong Kong. You couldn't stop (5) (talk) about your trip. When I think back on it, it was quite amusing. You barely let me (6) (say) anything.
Walter	I'm sorry, but you know that in my excitement, I nearly left my camera and my money behind.
Jade	I had no idea you were so forgetful.
Walter	I'm not prone to forgetting things. I simply had a lot on my mind. Anyway, I still believe it's worth (7) (visit).
Jade	So where did you start?
Walter	Kelly and I began our journey in Beijing. At first, the traffic was so bad that all I could do was learn how (8) (cross) the street. But it got easier. I visited the Forbidden City and the Summer Imperial Palace and many more incredible places. Kelly suggested (9) (visit) the National Centre for the Performing Arts. We watched people (10) (perform) in a Chinese opera. It was amazing! Beijing is my favourite city!

1.	2.	3.	4.
5.	6.	7.	8.
9.	10.

Answers written in the margins will not be marked.

Answers written in the margins will not be marked.

F. Multiple-choice Cloze (10 marks)

Read the following text. Decide which of the choices would best complete the text if inserted in the blanks. Write the letter of each answer in the space provided.

(1) in 1950 by the English author C. S. Lewis, this enduring classic is the most (2) story from the Chronicles of Narnia series. It is a highly influential work that has inspired other children's novelists including J. K. Rowling.

Plot

Set during World War II in England, the Pevensie siblings – Peter, Susan, Edmund, and Lucy – are sent to the countryside. They live in a large mansion owned by Professor Kirke, who tells them not to disturb him during the day.

They get bored quickly, so they play hide and seek. Lucy, the youngest of the group, hides in a wardrobe. But she discovers it is big and opens into a mysterious land covered in snow. But what really shocks her is that she sees a (3) creature – a faun called Tumnus. At first he is scared of Lucy, but he then invites her home for tea.

He tells her of the wicked White Witch who rules Narnia and who (4) a spell so that it would (5) winter forever in the land.

Edmund, Lucy's older brother, also goes into the wardrobe and enters Narnia. However, he meets the White Witch. She feeds him lots of Turkish Delight and promises him more if he brings his family members to her.

Motivated by greed, Edmund convinces the others to go through the wardrobe. They meet a talking beaver who tells them that the White Witch has captured Tumnus for talking to Lucy. He then tells them about the King of Narnia, a kind and righteous lion named Aslan, and that they should (6) his help.

Upon hearing this, Edmund sneaks away to tell the White Witch about this. She is horrified because there is a prophecy that four humans will come to Narnia and rule the land. That is why she wants to kill them. Edmund realises he made a big mistake, but he is trapped.

Aslan and the children rescue Edmund but there is one problem: Edmund is a (7) and according to the Deep Magic of Narnia his life must be given up to the Witch. Aslan accepts the rule and so (8) a deal: he gives up his life in exchange for Edmund's. But with Aslan's death, will the prophecy come true or not?

Ideas

C. S. Lewis was a Christian and his novel shares similarities with stories in the Bible. Aslan is a Christ-like figure because he gives up his life in exchange for Edmund's mistakes. When Aslan comes back to life it (9) Jesus being resurrected. The Wicked Witch is similar to the devil – she tempts Edmund like the serpent tempting Adam and Eve in the Garden of Eden.

He also may have looked to the Seven Deadly Sins as written in the poem Paradise Lost by John Milton. Edmund demonstrates gluttony – eating to (10) – and Lewis perhaps wanted to scare children away from this 'sin'.

Answers written in the margins will not be marked.

Answers written in the margins will not be marked.

Answers written in the margins will not be marked.

Answers written in the margins will not be marked.

1. A. Write B. Wrote C. Written D. Was written	2. A. notorious B. infamous C. ill-famed D. well-known	3. A. mythical B. myths C. mythology D. mythicise
4. A. cast B. comes C. falls under D. breaks	5. A. remind B. remain C. retake D. refrain	6. A. look into B. look C. seek for D. seek
7. A. trailer B. traitor C. tracer D. trader	8. A. rejects B. scuppers C. strikes D. blows	9. A. likes B. resembles C. differs from D. contradicts
10. A. excess B. moderation C. restraint D. deficient

1.	2.	3.	4.	5.
6.	7.	8.	9.	10.

Answers written in the margins will not be marked.

Answers written in the margins will not be marked.

G. Relative Clauses (10 marks)

Complete the following fact sheet by joining the two underlined sentences with a suitable appropriate relative pronoun. Add commas if necessary. Do not use "that" in your answer.

Aoki Machi

Basic Information

1. Mrs. Cheung has been the Chairperson of Aoki Machi since 2014. The company was moved from Kwun Tong to Tsim Sha Tsui.

Company Background

2. Aoki Machi was founded by Mr. Elio Lam in 1988. It is a food manufacturing company.

Special Work Hours

3. Staff do not have to work from Fridays to Sundays. This is different from the usual practice of other companies.

Afternoon sessions on Thursdays are used for self-improvement and recreation. This arrangement is especially good for our staff whose daily schedules are so tight that they have no time to refresh their bodies and minds every day.

Facilities

4. Our company has a canteen. It provides healthy and varied meals for free.

5. Our company has six special rooms. Some of them are still under construction. The fitness centre, which is newly built, is expected to be ready for use early next year.

1.

2.

3.

4.

5.

Answers written in the margins will not be marked.

H. Proofreading (10 marks)

Proofread the following text (numbered lines 1-10 only) without changing the meaning. No lines have more than one mistake and at least one line is correct. Do not make any changes to punctuation and do not make unnecessary changes. Use ONE word only for each correction. If you think there are no mistakes in a line, put a ✓ at the end of the line (example c).

Corrections must be done as follows:

Extra word: delete the extra word with an 'X' (example a).

Missing word: mark the position of the missing word with a '^' and write the missing word above it (example b).

Wrong word: underline the wrong word and write the correct word above it (example d).

a	When I was younger, my friends and I would X try to scare each other
b	by telling ghost stories. I never got frightened because I did not believe ^ ghosts.
c	In fact, I would laugh at anyone who said they did. However, I changed my ✓
d	mind about this last summer when I was staying at my aunt in Guangzhou.

- 1 All that glittered was, in fact, gold in the Grand Hotel's Blue Room, which a
2 Charity Jewellery Sale held on 9 April. Members were very excited to try on the beautiful
3 pieces – necklaces, rings and much more. They had to bid for the pieces that they loved. The 4 auction was conducted by our member, Brian Yiu, who, with auction hammer in his hand,
5 played the role of the auctioneer successfully. We were able to rise $71,000, thanks to the 6 generosity of our participated members. The sale would not have been possible without the 7 kindness of Jocelyn Wong, our member and jewellery designer. She donated three pieces and 8 sold the others in below market prices. The money raised will help the Hong Kong Southern 9 District Women's Association to organise mental health workshops for woman
10 to help them cope up with their stress.

END OF PAPER

Answers written in the margins will not be marked.